REPULSED

In a Three Hour Battle at Pinar del Rio Is Guerra Today.

CUBAN TROUBLE VERY GRAVE

DISPOSITION TO LET PRESIDENT PALMA QUELL REBELLION.

Intervention Talked of Among U. S. Officials—Rebels May March on Havana Soon.

Washington, Aug. 24.—The United States charge d'affaires at Havana cabled the state department today that the Cuban government says the noted revolutionary leader, Pino Guerra, was repulsed in a three hour fight at Pinar del Rio today. He says that Santiago and Puerto Principe provinces are reported fairly quiet.

Havana, Aug. 24.—The insurgent army under Pino Guerra is now on Guine. The government has concentrated all possible troops in Pinar del Rio for defense.

It is believed here the real object of General Bell's conference with the President yesterday was to determine the method of procedure should intervention become necessary. Administration officials are united in the belief that this government has the right to intervene now considering the proportions which the revolution has attained. However, there is a disposition to let the Cuban government work out its own salvation unless American interests in the island should be come unpleasantly involved. Intervention without a request from President Palma would be regarded in some quarters as a step toward annexation and the administration is particularly desirous that no such impression be created abroad.

Havana, Cuba, Aug. 24.—Havana today is anxiously awaiting news from the city of Pinar del Rio. Word was brought to the city last night from Pino Guerra in the province of Pinar del Rio, that the insurgent leader would march on Pinar del Rio today. Guerra declared that he would capture the city and would then begin a march on Havana on Saturday. As Guerra's army is vastly superior to the government forces at Pinar del Rio, an attack on the city will probably mean its fall. In view of Guerra's threat to then march on the capital, news of the western city's capture would probably create something of a panic in this city.

Reports reached here today that fighting has actually begun near Pinar del Rio which would indicate that Guerra has begun to carry out his promised plan of campaign. The reports have not been verified, however. Another battle is reported to be in progress at Guine. 45 miles from Havana. Colonel Estrampes, who left Havana on Wednesday with a government force, was said to be in battle with the insurgents there. No details have been received as to the outcome.

It is probable that from this time on reliable news in regard to the movement of the insurgents, especially as to any successes they may meet with will be scarce. The government is prepared to establish a rigorous censorship over the news because the publication of the news of the victories of the rebels may result in swelling the ranks of the insurgents.

There is a notable absence of news from Santiago, which is regarded as significant. The people have never been well satisfied with the government and it would be easy to recruit forces to take up arms against Palma. It is generally believed that the government has suppressed all messages from Santiago because they are of a disquieting nature.

The serious position of the government is shown by the steps taken by the action of the authorities in ordering four rapid fire guns to be purchased in the United States. Americans in Cuba who formerly served in the artillery branch of the United States army are to be recruited to man these guns.

The circulation of this news last night led to a report that the government had decided to ask the United States government for the loan of eight quick firing from a warship with the men to operate them to assist in downing the insurgents. This rumor was officially denied.

The expected cabinet crisis has come. Senor O'Farrell, secretary of state and justice and acting secretary of the interior has resigned. General Freyre-Andrade, speaker of the house, will take the interior portfolio temporarily at least. Efforts have been made to induce Senor O'Farrell to reconsider his resignation as the officials fear the effect of the resignation at this time may leave in foreign capitals.

Throughout the provinces the insurrection continues to grow. The government is being driven to extreme measures to cope with it. Every available man is being sent to Pinar del Rio and other threatened points. Even the artillery from the fortresses in Havana have been sent into the field. The city as well as most of the larger towns is now dependent upon rural guards and volunteer forces for defense.

Despite the threat sent by Guerra yesterday to officers of the Western railway that if more soldiers were carried over the line he will blow up its bridges and destroy other property, the railroad is still being used for the transmission of troops towards Pinar del Rio. The insurgent leader still holds San Luis and San Juan de Martinez. His delay in marching on Pinar del Rio is explained by the fact that he was waiting for 2,000 men known to be marching to his assistance. When these men arrive his force will number over 5,000 men.

Unless the insurrection is soon quelled finances promise to bother the government. It has promised to pay volunteers $2 a day. It is planned to raise an army of 10,000 volunteers which will mean a daily expense of (Continued on Page 6, 4th Col.)

SHOT HER THEN KISSED DYING WIFE'S LIPS

ST. LOUIS, POLICEMAN FOLLOWED WOMAN AND HER LOVER TO RESORT.

HE SHOT AND KILLED BOTH

Officer McNamara Who Was Locked Up, Admits the Deed, But Will Not Talk.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 24.—After trailing his wife and her companion, Jas. Brophy, a bartender, from one school to another, and finally to a resort on the Union Station, Michael McNamara, a policeman, known as the giant member of the Broadway squad, shot and killed the woman and the man as they were in the act of rekindling and assumed names.

Mrs. McNamara, a beautiful woman of 21 years, and only a short time married, dined with her husband at her mother's home, on Howard street. At 6:30 o'clock she took a car for downtown and McNamara followed her. He saw her enter the Savoy saloon, on Locust street, and meet a man. He then followed them to the Majestic saloon and from there to Ninteenth and Olive streets, where they talked for some minutes on a corner before entering another saloon. Later they went to Nineteenth and Chestnut streets, then returned to Olive street and went into an evil resort.

McNamara followed them upstairs to the second floor, where the clerk's office is located. As he entered Mrs. McNamara jumped in between him and Brophy, and pleaded to the latter to stop. Brophy started to do so, but McNamara's pistol was out of his pocket in a second, and the first bullet passed through Brophy's heart. McNamara then fired at his wife, and she staggered to run down the steps, he fired again, the bullet striking her in the back and inflicting a wound of which she died two minutes later, as her hand held her in his arms and kissed her lips.

McNamara is 35 years old. Brophy was about 50 years old, and had a wife and an eleven-year-old daughter. McNamara was held up and admitted his deed, but would make no further statement. The police who called in his place of the case yesterday afternoon Brophy was in trouble, but did not know the nature of it.

Mansfield, Aug. 24.—A prominent young Mansfield physician, Dr. Charles H. Lisle, son of Dr. J. W. Lisle, of Columbus, formerly of Pennsylvania, and a member of the legislature, from the Licking county from 1885 to 1887, is defendant in a $5,000 damage suit filed in Common Pleas court by Charles Cairns, a business man on the Pennsylvania railroad, who alleges that the affection of his young wife, Lisle, has been alienated.

Dr. Lisle is a charming and popular young man, who is married to a woman of the same name. The doctor is a member of the legislature, from the Licking county from 1885 to 1887, and is a member of the Pennsylvania railroad. Later Dr. Lisle requested authority to carry a revolver, saying that Mr. Cairns had threatened to do him violence. Dr. Lisle states that there is no ground for the suit of Cairns; that the latter was so jealous that when Mrs. Cairns gave him a cup of coffee, sometimes when he had been out on professional visits and had missed his meals, Cairns got very angry.

When Dr. Lisle attended the Ohio State university he was a fraternity man and prominent in college life.

BOOK TRUST

Object of an Investigation Made By Cleveland Superintendent.

MR. ELSON INQUIRING PRICES

FINDS COST OF BOOKS IS NOT UNIFORM OVER COUNTRY.

Indications Are That Trust Has Been Struck Severe Blow by Action Taken.

Cleveland, Aug. 24.—W. H. Elson, school superintendent, is now doing some "trust busting" of special interest all over the country and to parents and their children in the public schools. This city this year needs a big supply of new text books. Mr. Elson selected the books desired. From school superintendents of the large cities of the country he got the price per book charged by various companies comprising the book trust. He found, far western cities paid as much as twenty-five cents less per book for some books than this city and this city also paid the freight costs. He believes a school boy would call this discrimination. The city this week asked for bids for the book supply. In plain A, B, C, the companies were told that bids must be low as the lowest bids elsewhere, allowing for freight, however. The trust threatened not to bid but did. Indications are that the Elson fight will strike the trust a severe blow. The fight is being watched by the school directors over the country. Mr. Elson said today: "The people of the country may be saved considerable money if our efforts are successful. The poor man pays for school books for his child in many small school districts. There is no reason why he should pay tribute to the trust."

A GIRL LEAPED FROM A WINDOW IN THIRD STORY

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Miss Josie Olson, a waitress, leaped from a third story window in a downtown hotel early today to escape the persecution of a man who registered under the name of "Smith." She was taken unconscious to the Chicago Emergency hospital. Her companion escaped. Miss Olson received serious injuries.

The Republican Fight Against Labor

The Republican managers and big party bosses have evidently made up their minds to throw the Labor vote overboard and turn down all that Labor wants in the way of legislation. The great political battle now being fought out in Congressman Littlefield's district in Maine, is attracting the attention of the entire country. President Gompers of the Federation of Labor, is leading the campaign against Congressman Littlefield because of the latter's pronounced opposition to all the measures that organized labor wanted enacted into laws. The Republican congressional committee and the Federal administration are meeting the opposition of Labor to Littlefield by sending all the big party guns into that district, including Speaker Cannon and Secretary Taft, to bolster up the party machine and save the congressman from defeat. It is a direct issue between Labor and the Trusts, as President Gompers makes plain in all his statements. The Democratic and independent voters are lining up on the side of Labor in the contest, and the hope is that the big Republican majority in the district will be overcome by Labor's triumph.

The cost of living will greatly decrease when the people of the United States can buy American trust products as cheap as the foreigners now buy them. When the cost of living goes down, wages virtually rise.

CAMPAIGN

Republican Managers Will Have About the Usual Supply.

As the dollars are not rolling in at all plentifully at Republican headquarters, in fact not nearly enough to pay running expenses, the evidence of contributions from corporation magnates is obvious. The call from Maine for money to "get out the vote" and tally the disheartened standpaters of that state, has been so insistent that a large fund has been found necessary. It has always been the rule of the Republican campaign managers that $50,000 is required on the average in each close congressional district, which is but little more than $2 for each Republican voter. As there are at least 112 congressional districts that are debatable, it will require $5,600,000 to put up a winning fight. Where is this large sum coming from, if not from the trust magnates, who expect the Republican Congress to "stand pat" and protect their interests.

The Republican politicians have never failed to get all the money needed to perpetuate them in power, and it will doubtless again be forthcoming even though the tainted funds of the life insurance companies are not now so freely distributed as was the case two years ago. The Republicans cannot run campaigns without money, their speakers and workers are used to being paid and if the machine workers are not active the vote falls off and defeat is certain in close districts or states.

So it will be seen that money is a great factor with the Republican campaign managers and the dollar subscription is but a bluff to hide the collection and disbursement of funds from big corporations.

They expect the usual contribution from the trusts, and that is why they killed the bill prohibiting trusts from hereafter debauching elections with their millions.

But with the people aroused as they are, trust corruption money will not be so effective this year as in times past in controlling elections.

HOKE SMITH'S VICTORY

Practically Complete Returns Show That Mr. Smith Carried 118 Counties for Governor.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 24.—Practically complete returns from all counties in the state show that Hoke Smith carried 118 counties for governor; R. B. Russell, 11; Clark Howell, 9; J. H. Estill, 4, and James M. Smith, 3. This will give each in the state convention which meets at Macon Sept. 4, the following vote, insuring the nomination of Hoke Smith on the first ballot by an overwhelming vote: Hoke Smith, 304; Russell, 26; Howell, 18; Estill, 12; J. M. Smith, 6.

GLOOM OR GINGER?

Both Are Found Lurking in Your Breakfast, Dinner and Supper.

Not many people realize that the easiest way to affect the brain is through the stomach. The most common illustration of this is the result of drinking whiskey or any intoxicating drink. The same is true as to any article of food.

And you have probably at times eaten something that lay like a lump of lead on your stomach. You can't forget how it makes you feel—groggy, uncomfortable and peevish. That's because everything that affects the stomach affects the brain! If your stomach feels good, you will.

But not everything will have an effect on the brain. Pie won't. Neither will grease or fat. That's because there is no nourishment in them, they simply create heat but no strength. They make the stomach work overtime, make you dreary and your brain foggy.

Nature has made the cereals to supply the brain and muscles of the world. The most intensely nourishing cereals are wheat and barley. By eating these you get the greatest amount of strength and blood-fibre it is possible to get from any other food in the world.

That's what Hardyfood is made of,—wheat and malted barley. Every particle of indigestible material found in them is thrown out, and there is left nothing but the very life of the grain—the purest wheat and barley.

You can eat Hardyfood for breakfast, dinner or supper, or noonday luncheon, with cream and it will taste delicious.

Often you sit at table and don't know what you want. Just eat Hardyfood. It will satisfy that peculiar craving in your stomach, make you feel as though you had had a fulsome, delicious meal, and without any of the bad after effects. It will make your stomach feel fine. It will make your brain feel clear, and you will smile and be good natured. That's the object. Smiles flirt with success.

Hardyfood builds brain, bone, brawn and nerve, because it contains the most nourishing foods in the world.

You can't get muscle from a tenderloin steak; you can't remember things any better by eating ham. These things make fat—all fat and no brain.

Hardyfood gives the maximum of nerve and brain force, and demands the minimum of digestion. You hardly need a stomach to digest it.

It will make you feel good all over. It is the life of the whole family.

Individualism Versus Socialism

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, in Century Magazine

Copyright, 1906, by the Century Co.

THE words "individualism" and "socialism" define tendencies rather than concrete systems; for, as extreme individualism is not to be found under any form of government, so there is no example of socialism in full operation. All government being more or less socialistic, the contention, so far as this subject is concerned, is between those who regard individualism as ideal, to be approached as nearly as circumstances will permit, and those who regard a socialistic state as ideal, to be established as far and as fast as public opinion will allow.

The individualist believes that competition is not only a helpful, but a necessary, force in society, to be guarded and protected; the socialist regards competition as a hurtful force, to be entirely exterminated. It is not necessary to consider those who consciously take either side for reasons purely selfish; it is sufficient to know that on both sides there are those who with great earnestness and sincerity present their theories, convinced of their correctness and sure of the necessity for their application to human society.

As socialism is the newer doctrine, the socialist is often greeted with epithet and denunciation rather than with argument, but, as usual, it does not deter him. Martyrdom never kills a cause, as all history, political as well as religious, demonstrates.

Moral Passion Pervades Socialism.

No one can read socialistic literature without recognizing the "moral passion" that pervades it. The Russian club of Oakland, Cal., quotes with approval an editorial comment which asserts that the socialistic creed inspires a religious zeal and makes its followers enthusiasts in its propagation. It also quotes Professor Nitto of the University of Naples as saying that "the morality that socialism teaches is by far superior to that of its adversaries," and it quotes Thomas Kirkup as declaring in the Encyclopedia Britannica that "the ethics of socialism are identical with those of Christianity."

It will be seen, therefore, that the socialist not only claims superiority in ethics, but attempt to appropriate Christ's teachings as a foundation for their creed. As the maintenance of either position would insure them ultimate victory, it is clear that the first battle between the individualist and the socialist must be in the field of ethics. No one who has faith in the triumph of the right (and who can contend with vigor without such a faith?) can doubt that that which is ethically best will finally prevail in every department of human activity.

Best Means of Development.

Assuming that the highest aim of society is the harmonious development of the human race, physically, mentally and morally, the first question to decide is whether individualism or socialism furnishes the best means of securing that harmonious development. For the purpose of this discussion, individualism will be defined as the private ownership of the means of production and distribution where competition is possible, leaving to public ownership those means of production and distribution in which competition is practically impossible, and socialism will be defined as the collective ownership through the state of all the means of production and distribution.

One advocate of socialism defines it as "common ownership of natural resources and public utilities and the common operation of all industries for the public good." It will be seen that the definitions of socialism commonly in use include some things which cannot fairly be described as socialistic, and some of the definitions (like the last one, for instance) beg the question by assuming that the public operation of all industries will necessarily be for the general good. As the socialists agree in hostility to competition as a controlling force, and as individualists agree that competition is necessary for the well being of society, the fairest and most accurate line between the two schools can be drawn at the point where competition begins to be possible, both schools favoring public ownership where competition is impossible, but differing as to the wisdom of public ownership where competition can have free play.

Common Ground.

Much of the strength developed by socialism is due to the fact that socialists advocate certain reforms which individualists also advocate. Take, for illustration, the public ownership of waterworks. It is safe to say that a large majority of the people living in cities of any considerable size favor their public ownership—individualists because it is practically impossible to have more than one water system in a city, and socialists on the general ground that the government should own all the means of production and distribution. The sentiment in favor of municipal lighting plants is not yet so strong, and the sentiment in favor of public telephones and public street car lines is still less pronounced, but the same general principles apply to them, and individualists, without accepting the creed of socialism, can advocate the extension of municipal ownership to these utilities.

Then, too, some of the strength of socialism is due to its condemnation of abuses which, while existing under individualism, are not at all necessary to individualism—abuses which the individualists are as anxious as the socialists to remedy. It is not only consistent with individualism, but is a necessary implication of it, that the competing parties should be placed upon substantially equal footing; for competition is not worthy of that name if one party is able arbitrarily to fix the terms of the agreement, leaving the other with no choice but to submit to the terms prescribed. Individualists, for instance, can consistently advocate usury laws which fix the rate of interest to be charged, these laws being justified on the ground that the borrower and the lender do not stand upon an equal footing. Where the money lender is left free to take advantage of the necessities of the borrower, the so-called freedom of contract is really freedom to extort. Upon the same ground society can justify legislation limiting the hours of adult labor. One can believe in competition and still favor such limitations and restrictions as will make the competition real and effective. To advocate individualism it is no more necessary to excuse the abuses to which competition may lead than it is to defend the burning of a city because fire is essential to human comfort, or to praise a tempest because air is necessary to human life.

Man Needs the Spur of Competition.

In comparing individualism with socialism, it is only fair to consider individualism when made as good as human wisdom can make it and then to measure it with socialism at its best. It is a common fault of the advocate to present his system, idealized, in contrast with his opponent's system at its worst, and it must be confessed that neither individualism nor socialism has been entirely free from this fault. In dealing with any subject we must consider man as he is or he may reasonably be expected to become under the operation of the system proposed, and it is much safer to consider him as he is than to expect a radical change in his nature. Taking man as we find him, he needs, as individualists believe, the spur of competition. Even the socialists admit the advantage of rivalry within certain limits, but they would substitute altruism for selfish motives. Just here the individualist and the socialist find themselves in antagonism. The former believes that altruism is a spiritual quality which defies governmental definition, while the socialist believes that altruism will take the place of selfishness under an enforced collectivism.

Ruskin's statement that "government and co-operation are in all things and eternally the laws of life; anarchy and competition eternally and in all things the laws of death," is often quoted by socialists, but, as generalizations are apt to be, it is more comprehensive than clear. There is a marked distinction between voluntary co-operation upon terms mutually satisfactory and compulsory co-operation upon terms agreeable to a majority. Many of the attempts to establish voluntary co-operation have failed because of disagreement as to the distribution of the common property or income, and those which have succeeded best have usually rested upon a religious rather than upon an economic basis.

Co-operation Must Be Voluntary.

In any attempt to apply the teachings of Christ to an economic state, it must be remembered that his religion begins with a regeneration of the human heart and with an ideal of life which makes service the measure of greatness. Tolstoy, who repudiates socialism as a substantial reform, contends that the bringing of the individual into harmony with God is the all-important thing, and that, this accomplished, all injustice will disappear.

It is much easier to conceive of a voluntary association between persons desiring to work together according to the Christian ideal than to conceive of the successful operation of a system enforced by law wherein altruism is the controlling principle. The attempt to unite church and state has never been helpful to either government or religion, and it is not at all certain that human nature can yet be trusted to use the instrumentalities of government to enforce religious ideas. The persecutions which have made civilization bluish have been attempts to compel conformity to religious beliefs sincerely held and zealously proclaimed.

Human Selfishness Ever Present.

The government, whether it leans toward individualism or toward socialism, must be administered by human beings, and its administration will reflect the weaknesses and imperfections of those who control it. Bancroft declares that the expression of the universal conscience in history is the nearest approach to the voice of God, and he is right in paying this tribute to the wisdom of the masses; and yet we cannot overlook the fact that this universal conscience must find governmental expression through frail human beings who yield to the temptation to serve their own interests at the expense of their fellows. Will socialism purge the individual of selfishness or bring a nearer approach to justice? Justice requires that each individual shall receive from society a reward proportionate to his contribution to society. Can the state, acting through officials, make this appointment better than it can be made by competition? At present official favors are not distributed strictly according to merit either in republics or in monarchies. Is it certain that socialism would insure a fairer division of rewards? If the government operates all the factories, all the farms and all the stores, there must be superintendents as well as workmen; there must be different kinds of employment, some more pleasant, some less pleasant. Is it likely that any set of men can distribute the work or fix the compensation to the satisfaction of all or even to the satisfaction of a majority of the people? When the government employs comparatively few of the people it must make the terms and conditions inviting enough to draw the persons needed from private employment, and if those employed in the public service become dissatisfied they can return to outside occupations. But what will be the result if there is no private employment? What outlet will there be for discontent if the government owns and operates all the means of production and distribution?

Individualism Has Been Tested.

Under individualism a man's reward is determined in the open market, and where competition is free he can hope to sell his services for what they are worth. Will his chance for reward be as good when he must do the work prescribed for him on the terms fixed by those who are in control of the government?

As there is no example of such a socialistic state as is now advocated, all reasoning upon the subject must be confined to the theory, and theory needs to be corrected by experience. As in mathematics no one can calculate the direction of the resultant without a knowledge of all the forces that act upon the moving body, so in estimating the effect of a proposed system one must take into consideration all the influences that operate upon the human mind and heart, and who is wise enough to predict with certainty the result of any system before it has been thoroughly tried? Individualism has been tested by centuries of experience. Under it there have been progress and development. That it has not been free from evil is not a sufficient condemnation. The same rain that furnishes the necessary moisture for the growing crop sometimes floods the land and destroys the harvest; the same sun that coaxes the tiny shoot from Mother Earth sometimes scorches the blade and blasts the maturing stalk. The good things given us by our heavenly Father often, if not always, have an admixture of evil, to the lessening of which the intelligence of man must be constantly directed. Just now there are signs of an ethical awakening which is likely to result in reforming some of the evils which have sprung from individualism, but which can be corrected without any impairment of the principle.

Altruism Necessary.

The individualist, while contending that the largest and broadest development of the individual, and hence of the entire population, is best secured by full and free competition, made fair by law, believes in a spiritual force which acts beyond the sphere of the state. After the government has secured to the individual, through competition, a reward proportionate to his effort, religion admonishes him of his stewardship and of his obligation to use his greater strength, his larger ability and his richer reward in the spirit of brotherhood. Under individualism we have seen a constant increase in altruism. The fact that the individual can select the objects of his benevolence and devote his means to the causes that appeal to him has given an added stimulus to his endeavors. Would this stimulus be as endearing under socialism?

Probably the nearest approach that we have to the socialistic state today is to be found in the civil service. If the civil service develops more usefulness and more altruistic devotion to the general welfare than private employment does, the fact is yet to be discovered. This is not offered as a criticism of civil service in so far as civil service may require examinations to ascertain fitness for office, but it is simply a reference to a well known fact—viz, that a life position in the government service, which separates one from the lot of the average producer of wealth, has given an extraordinary stimulus to higher development.

A Friendly Rivalry.

There should be no unfriendliness between the honest individualist and the honest socialist; both seek that which they believe to be best for society. The socialist, by pointing out the abuses of individualism, will assist in their correction. At present private monopoly is putting upon individualism an undeserved odium, and it behooves the individualist to address himself energetically to this problem in order that the advantages of competition may be restored to industry. And the duty of immediate action is made more imperative by the fact that the socialist is inclined to support the monopoly, in the belief that it will be easier to induce the government to take over an industry after it has passed into the hands of a few men. The trust magnates and the socialists unite in declaring monopoly to be an economic development, the former hoping to retain the fruits of monopoly in private hands, the latter expecting the ultimate appropriation of the benefits of monopoly by the government. The individualist, on the contrary, contends that the consolidation of industries ceases to be an economic advantage when competition is eliminated, and he believes further that no economic advantage which could come from the monopolization of all the industries in the hands of the government could compensate for the stifling of individual initiative and independence. And the individualists who thus believe stand for a morality and for a system of ethics which they are willing to measure against the ethics and morality of socialism.

Clubs and Tipping.

In clubs the best service is obtained where tipping is forbidden. In poorly conducted clubs tipping is allowed, but in the best conducted ones a member found guilty of tipping a servant would be liable to expulsion. The majority of clubs in America are luxuries. Wines, food and tobacco cost as much in them as in fashionable restaurants. In these clubs, which have little reason for existence, tipping is permissible. But in England the club is not a luxury, but an economy. The English founded the club, and an Englishman is a clubman because he can get at his club a good dinner, a good bottle of wine and a good cigar at less than half the price he would pay at the Carlton or the Trocadero. In no English club is tipping ever countenanced. Men have been expelled from English clubs for habitual tipping. In many American clubs it has been found that a no tipping rule, on the whole, bettered the service.

"RED BONES"

Surrounded the Tent and Riddled It With Bullets—Eleven Occupants Killed or Wounded.

New Orleans, Aug. 24.—A special report from Deridder says that a crowd of armed "Red Bones" and other natives surrounded a tent in which were eight negroes and three white laborers. They emptied shotguns, pistols and rifles into the tent, wounding all of its inmates. It is said that two are dead, six mortally wounded and three slightly hurt. The names of none of them could be learned.

The cause of the shooting seems to have been the enmity that existed on the part of the natives toward the employees of the Grigsby Construction company, who are grading the San Francisco extension between Slabtown and Oakdale. The natives are opposed to the introduction of negro labor in their locality.

That False and Unjust Assault on Mr. Ashbrook.

Editor of the Advocate:

Dear Sir—If the person who made the vicious attack on Mr. Wm. A. Ashbrook in the American Tribune last night over the signature "A Patison Democrat," has any actual existence it might be well to inform him and any one else who is interested in the matter that he is guilty either of stating what he does not know anything about, or stating what he knows is not the truth when he states that Mr. Ashbrook voted against the county local option plank (so called). The fact is, as is known to the undersigned, and to all others who were in the Licking county delegation that morning, that Mr. Ashbrook was not present in the hall of the convention during that morning session until about the time the vote was called for nominations for State School Commissioner, over an hour after the matter altered by the anonymous correspondent was disposed of.

Very sincerely yours,
RODERIC C. JONES.

A DAY'S DOINGS IN COURT HOUSE

MRS. FRANK DE GROFF ASKS TO HAVE HER MAIDEN NAME RESTORED.

Three Condemnation Suits—Real Estate Transfers—Alimony Case. Court Notes.

Mrs. Clara De Groff has commenced suit in the Common Pleas court for divorce from Frank De Groff. The parties were married September 21, 1905, and have no children. Mrs. De Groff says that at the time of her marriage to Mr. De Groff he represented to her that he was the owner of a farm and had money in the hands of his father, and that he could and would furnish her with a good home. She says that relying on his representations she consented to the marriage, but later discovered that the representations were false. She also charges her husband with cruelty and that he compelled her to work and provide for their support; that she stood his treatment until June 4, when she became ill and left him and that it would be dangerous to her health to attempt to live with him. She asks for divorce and restoration to her maiden name of Clara Van Atta. Smythe & Smythe, attorneys.

Condemnation Suits.
The Ohio Fuel Supply company has commenced three separate condemnation proceedings in the Probate court against William A. Hunter, Dwight Smythe and Mary Smythe and Wm. Yonst, residents of Burlington township, to appropriate property for right of way. Wm. H. Thompson, F. V. Owen, H. A. Williams, Kibler & Montgomery and Hunter & Hunter, attorneys for the Ohio Fuel and Supply company. The preliminary hearing will be held on Friday, August 31, at 9 o'clock.

Suit for Alimony.
Mary Wilkin has commenced suit in Common Pleas court for alimony from her husband, Earl Wilkins. The parties were married June 5, 1905, and one child, Forest Wilkin, was born of the marriage. She says her husband provided her with a home until June 17. She says that on that date her husband did not prevent her from being locked out of the house by Lavina Wilkin and otherwise allowed her to be so ill treated by those whom the defendant allowed to remain about their home, especially Lavina Wilkins, that she was compelled to take up her residence separate and apart from her husband. She says her husband is about to dispose of his property and asks that he be restrained from doing so. She asks the court to order her husband to pay to her $50 for her sustenance and expenses during the pendency of the case and that upon the final hearing she be decreed such alimony as may be reasonable. She also asks that the custody of the child be awarded her. Jones & Jones, attorneys for Mary Wilkin.

Injunction Suit.
Abraham Moore and Emma Moore of Mary Ann township, have commenced suit in the Common Pleas court against Benjamin F. Glover and Mary J. Glover to enjoin them from destroying a gate and fences of a certain lane, or interfering with the plaintiffs using for access or ingress or for watering purposes, said lane, and that upon the final hearing the injunction be made permanent and judgment be rendered against the defendants for the recovering of the possession of the premises and for all proper relief. Russell & Horner, attorneys for plaintiffs. A temporary injunction was allowed by Judge Seaward.

Delayed the Cars.

S. A. Thompson while hauling a large wagon load of lumber on Union street Thursday afternoon met with an accident which delayed the cars carrying the people to and from the picnic at Idlewild. Mr. Thompson had a very large and heavy load of lumber which he was hauling from Dorsey's mill south of the city. Just as the wagon crossed the street car track one of the rear wheels gave way. After considerable time spent in breaking the spokes in order that the wagon could be hauled off the track, the cars were permitted to proceed.

Horse Wasn't Stolen.

Dr. Edwin Nichols was excited on Friday morning when he missed his horse and buggy. His first impression was that the outfit had been stolen, but the boy who had charge of the horse soon straightened out matters. It was only a little mistake on the part of the boy. He had hitched the animal in the rear of Dr. Knauss' premises.

Struck Opponent's Horse.

The attention of the humane officer should be called to the disgraceful and cruel actions of the rider of the horse that finished second in the one-half mile running race at Idlewild park Thursday afternoon. On the back stretch when he supposed he was safe from the judges and leading in the race, the winning horse gained until the two horses were side by side, when this vicious would-be jockey began to brutally strike his opponent's horse over the head and nose, with the stock or butt end of a heavy riding whip and laid two or three heavy blows on the other rider's back. His actions were witnessed by an Advocate man, and if such brutal attacks are not stopped a warrant will be forthcoming.

Billy's Nerves Shattered.

Billy Pickett a farmer residing east of Newark was brought in by officers on complaint of residents near the Norris Lumber yard. Pickett was in a bad condition caused by an over indulgence and was trying to coax several boys into the lumber yard, claiming he had lost a pair of spectacles. Officers Howard and Scott made the arrest and at the same time discovered Dr. Nichols' horse and buggy which had been reported stolen early in the afternoon. It was thought that there was some connection between Pickett and the missing rig, but it developed that a lively boy delivered the rig to the wrong place. Pickett was in a serious condition Friday morning, requiring several shots of some dark "stimulant" kept at the prison for such emergencies. He drew $5 and costs and a jail sentence.

E. TANKSLEY IS UNDER ARREST

CHIEF OF POLICE SAYS MAN IS NOT ACCUSED OF SCHAFER MURDER.

Nevertheless Next Grand Jury Will Inquire Into Crime Committed in January, 1904.

Bedford, Ind., Aug. 24.—Chief of Police James M. Myers, who was sent to Evansville to bring Ernest Tanksley, arrested there, arrived today with his man. The report that Tanksley is connected with the Schafers case, and that he was arrested on such charge is without foundation. Your correspondent interviewed prosecuting Attorney Fred Fletcher today and while he did not make a statement, he intimated that Tanksley was being brought here on minor charges growing out of a family affair. Fletcher did, however, say that Tanksley would be examined by the next grand jury here in September, concerning the Sarah Schaffer murder of January 21, 1904, in this city. It is claimed that much evidence in the murder case exists against Tanksley, more, it is said, than against any suspect heretofore. The authorities here will not take any steps further in the Schafers case until the grand jury convenes, they say, which will no doubt end the rumors afloat concerning Tanksley's connection with the murder.

Marchand, attorney for the interstate commerce commission, it was announced that the National Petroleum association will file with the interstate commerce commission a complaint against the roads between Chicago, Omaha and Kansas City. The complaint will charge that the roads are discriminating against the independent oil shippers on rates between the three cities. Mr. Marchand expressed the opinion that the commission would return to Cleveland within a few weeks to take up several matters.

Athens Investigation.

Columbus, O., Aug. 24.—Jesse N. Oren of Wilmington and Rufus C. Burton of Zanesville, members of the state board of charities who were made a committee by Governor Harris to investigate the Athens State hospital relative to the charges against the steward, Jerry Carpenter, will meet at Zanesville with H. Higgins, who made the original charges against Carpenter, called at the executive office and conferred with Secretary Flickinger about the matter.

Sheriff Fatally Injured.

Wooster, O., Aug. 24.—Armstrong Brown, sheriff of Wayne county, it is believed, sustained fatal internal injuries. While Brown was riding horseback a friend came along and playfully hit the horse with a whip, the horse jumped, the halter broke and Brown, who is a very large heavy man, was thrown off, landing on his shoulders and back. Surgeons believe that the injuries will cause death.

Ran Into Funeral.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 24.—While a funeral procession of six carriages was proceeding on the way to a cemetery a car crashed into the front carriage, containing the body of an infant. Six persons in the carriage were thrown out and the coffin was hurled to the sidewalk. Five members of the funeral party were hurt. Michael J. Lutheran was probably fatally injured.

Columbus, O., Aug. 24.—Preferring death to the relentless pursuit of the Mafia, Anjelico Domiani, 39, an Italian, living at Dayton, tried to kill himself here. He is at a hospital in a critical condition and may die. "I thought I might as well kill myself as let some one else kill me," explained Domiani to the police.

Steubenville, O., Aug. 24.—George Grazer, a member of Company A, Second regiment, O. N. G., was found murdered in a cornfield between Zoar and Bolivar.

COLORED SOLDIERS MUST GO

Washington, Aug. 24.—The negro soldier must go, according to the belief of many officials here, who have followed the course of events in the trouble at Brownsville, Texas, which led up to the shooting of two white citizens by colored United States troops stationed there. It is a prevalent belief here that congress will either be asked to repeal the present law permitting the enlistment of colored troops or will be asked to designate posts at which they shall be stationed. The placing of these colored troops has always been a matter of anxiety and annoyance to army officers.

Confirmation of the reported sale of the Zanesville O. P. franchise to the Marion, O., ball company comes to hand in the form of a special dispatch from Marion, as follows:

Yesterday it was officially announced by the local baseball association that the franchise of the Zanesville team of the O. P. league had been purchased by Marion and that the first game would be played in this city on Tuesday of next week with Mansfield.

A large force of men is working hard to complete the new grounds and grandstand, which are located just south of the C. D. & M. road. It is not thought that the new grounds will be ready for the opening game, so the first series will be played at Marion park.

Although W. O. Anderson of Zanesville made a denial of the report yesterday afternoon, it is believed that the deal was closed Wednesday as the papers in Marion and Akron used stories of the sale. President Morton at Akron gave out the information which was confirmed by the movement of the baseball park owners at Marion. They have been building a new park and have announced that a team of the O. P. league will play at Marion next Tuesday. Zanesville is the only O. P. club to be offered for sale, and it is without doubt the Mogul franchise purchased by them.

The Zanesville Times Recorder has the following to say regarding the sale:

CUBA IS ABLE TO QUELL THE REBELS

So Reports United States Consul to State Department--Interference is Not Needed.

Washington, Aug. 21--Cuba is enlisting volunteers and still asserts her ability to crush the revolutionary movement, according to a dispatch from Mr. Sleeper, the United States charge at Havana, to the state department. Mr. Sleeper says the outbreak has spread to Santa Clara and Matanzas provinces. Carlos Mondetta with 200 men is leading the insurrection in Santa Clara province, while the movement in Matanzas province is reported to be of little importance and the leader is unknown. The state department regards the dispatch as an indication that Cuba is fully able to look after its own interests, and there is no suggestion of interference in Cuban affairs by the United States.

The Platt amendment, which defined the conditions on which the United States should withdraw from Cuba and turn the island over to the control of the Cuban people, provided that a part of the new republic's constitution should contain certain provisions concerning the future relations of the United States and Cuba. The third of these provisions was as follows: "That the government of Cuba consents that the United States may exercise the right to intervene for the preservation of Cuban independence, the maintenance of a government adequate for the protection of life, property and individual liberty, and for discharging the obligations which respect to Cuba imposed by the treaty of Paris on the United States now to be assumed and undertaken by the government of Cuba."

CUBANS INDIFFERENT.
Some of Them Evidently Would Prefer Change of Presidents.

Havana, Aug. 21--To the trained eye indifference to the fate of the present government is plainly visible among the Cubans.

One drawback to the general situation is the fact that while many prominent men are protesting their loyalty to the government there is an undeniable lukewarmness and waiting attitude among the masses. They have the impression that perhaps a change in the presidential chair might bring more liberty and real self-government to Cuba.

In this city the general attitude is loyal. The opposition and independent newspapers discuss with analytical coldness the cry that if the government is not able to quell the insurrection within two months, other forcible means must be employed for the restoration of peace. There are no ringing calls to arms. The moderate newspapers print with approval the resolutions declaring adherence to the government by their party organizations, but there has been nothing which could be fairly described as a general rising of the people in defense of the government.

General Jose Miguel Gomez, the Liberal candidate for president last year, who was placed under arrest, will be brought from Batubano to this city. The adoption of a circuitous route was due to apprehension that an attempt might be made to rescue him by his personal and political friends. Ex-Congressman Mendiola Crestes Ferrera, who was General Gomez's campaign manager and who just arrived here from New York, was not arrested, although a warrant was out for his apprehension.

The killing of the insurrectionary leader, General Quintin Bandera, in engagement between rural guards and volunteers against the Santa Clara rebels and in dispatching 150 more men to defend Pinar del Rio against Pino Guerra. The capture of San Juan de Martinez by Guerra's band was not a great surprise, though it was not expected to occur so soon. The place was protected by a very small detachment of rural guards, while Guerra's strength was much greater. The taking of Pinar del Rio will be quite another matter, since there are in that vicinity thousands of many troops, as the insurgent Pino Guerra can muster. It is expected more than probable that the troops will wipe the offensive and if possible drive Guerra from the island.

frightfully gashed by the long, heavy machetes of the rural guards who ended their career. Across the street in Neptune park a great crowd, composed mostly of negro friends of Bandera, watches the morgue with silent interest.

John Bull Agitated.
London, Aug. 21--Newspapers here print editorials on the situation in Cuba and speculate as to the probability of the United States being obliged to intervene to restore order. However, it is generally admitted that the United States government has no desire to take such a step, as it would mean the annexation of the island.

The Daily Telegraph says that intervention would create something like ferment throughout the South American republics and would be exceedingly malapropos so soon after the international American congress, but that the interest of the United States in the islands are so great that, malapropos or not, public opinion in the United States certainly will not tolerate a prolonged and aimless rebellion, which would stultify all the good work accomplished there under American influence.

LABOR DAY AT BUCKEYE LAKE MONDAY SEPT. 3

Immense plans were laid for the celebration of Labor Day at Buckeye Lake on Monday, September 3, at the meeting of the Trades Union and Labor Council Thursday evening at the Music Hall.

The big celebration will differ from the usual custom in that it will be along the line of a huge family picnic. Prominent labor leaders of national reputation will be in attendance and will deliver addresses. During the forenoon, a band stand will be erected and concerts will be given from 8 o'clock until 12. All of the principal business houses have arranged to close for the day in order that their employees may enjoy the outing at the lake. All popular sports will be indulged in but as yet the program has not been fully prepared.

It is understood that the Iron Molders, who had received an invitation to join the Columbus molder in their celebration, have declined the invitation and will celebrate in this city on the square with appropriate entertainment.

Notice to Merchants.
Local merchants are hereby notified that no man, or committee, is authorized by the Trades Union and Labor Council to solicit any subscriptions or donations for Labor Day. Any requests in this direction are purely personal and have no connection with the central body. The official Labor Day committee has already made its arrangements for the Labor Day celebration at Buckeye Lake, and is not asking for contributions. Everybody has a standing invitation to join with organized labor in this grand meeting.

John R. Donahue, Chairman; George Flohr, J. J. Rausch, Arthur Pitts, S. C. Abster, W. T. Seymour, Labor Day Committee.

LABOR MEETING TODAY

At press time Friday afternoon a meeting was in progress in Music hall in which the Molders' Union endorsed the action of Thursday night, i. e., that Labor Day be celebrated in this city.

It is stated that at a meeting on Thursday evening there was but one man of the Labor Council present in attendance on the invitation extended to them. The place of holding the Labor Day celebration, the following day, was said to be in favor of celebrating the Labor Day Molders' Union at Buckeye Lake, and the Labor Day celebration at the Lake would be held on Monday, September 3.

UNCLE SAM IS NOW THRU WITH OLD SPELLING

HEREAFTER WRDS R TO B WRIT AS THEY R PRONOUNCED SAYS PRESIDENT.

WILL BEGIN WITH 100 WORDS

Reform in Spelling Will Entail Vast Amount of Work Upon the Department Clerks.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 21--President Roosevelt authorized the announcement today that the reform in spelling recommended by the committee which Andrew Carnegie created, will hereafter be accepted in all departmental correspondence and official documents. To put it briefly, Uncle Sam is "thru" with "through," and the spelling of all other words which gives the lie direct to the pronunciation.

From now on the literature put out by the governmental departments will look to the uninitiated like Little Willie's first composition or a page from the works of the late lamented Josh Billings. Orders have been sent to Public Printer Stallings in Washington to secure the list of 100 most used words the spelling reform committee suggests be changed. The public printer will furnish copies of the word list to every department and bureau of the government's service, and all the humor in the idea will soon probably vanish, as clerks printers and stenographers buckle down to unlearning English as she is writ. It is understood the spellers reform committee will follow up its list of 100 words from time to time with recommendations of additional word changes. As fast as these changes are made by the committee they will be adopted in the governmental departments.

The President realizes very clearly the addition of spelling reform in the departments will entail at first a vast amount of work, but he is convinced that not only will the American language assume an individuality of its own, which it never before possessed, but in the long run this veritable earthquake in orthography will result in a great saving of time and trouble for the native users as well as for those who wish to adopt our tongue.

A Doctor's Prescription.

For years Dr. A. L. Jackson used the Jackson Remedies in his private practice as a regular prescription. He had no thought of manufacturing it or advertising it as a proprietary medicine until there was a demand for it by his many friends, who clamored for the original prescription.

Two Thousand Patients

E. H. Hodge, O. D. Opelman, North Park Place, Newark, Ohio, writes that he has suffered with indigestion and all attending ills, but after taking Dr. Jackson Digestive and Liver Powders, he is relieved of the first stage and feels the best he has felt for many years. The reason Dr. Jackson Digestive and Liver Powders cure is that they contain the ingredients needed for the way digestive organs in proper proportion, being in powder form they dissolve in the stomach and are absorbed immediately.
